

In Washington

Governor Bill Waller, right, and Senator Martin Smith were in Washington, D.C., last week to urge the Comptroller General of the United States to personally investigate NASA's figures comparing Utah and MTF in Mississippi as the site for the new Space Shuttle Program. The Governor and Senator Smith presented findings of the State's R & D Center that took issue with many of NASA's findings. They maintained United States taxpayers would have to pay more on the cost-plus contract by not using the $400 million MTF facility already owned by NASA.

Suit threatened by contractor on bid

by Bob Innes

The regular meeting of the Long Beach City Council ended Tuesday night with a protest by Ronald Jefferson of Jefferson Construction and Demolishing Co. Jefferson said he is seeking legal counsel to investigate the awarding of a bid for construction of the addition to City Hall.

According to Jefferson his bid of $27,500 was rejected because he did not include his state license number on the bid form.

He further explained the bid recently awarded to W. E. Smallwood of $29,600 was not signed which is illegal.

Jefferson also stated that the change order that was approved at the meeting means that the budget of $30,000 has been passed. "I think they should have thrown out the bids all together and readvertised," he said.

Juvenile suspected of kidnapping

A 17 year-old Gulfport youth was arrested late Sunday night by Long Beach and Pass Christian Police officers and charged with four counts of pointing and aiming a firearm.

Harry Kaletsch, Long Beach police chief said the juvenile was arrested about 10 p.m. at his home where officers seized a double-barreled .28 caliber derringer Kaletsch said.

The youth is being held in connection with alleged attempts to abduct girls in Pass Christian and Long Beach Saturday night.

Chief Kaletsch said that in all the reported incidents the girls were riding bicycles.

The black youth is in custody of the Harrison County Family Court, but was ordered back to the county jail by Judge Lawrence Samski on a mittimus order. He is being held there under no bond.

Harrison County Sheriff Howard L. Hobbs told the Echo that the department strongly suspects the boy of being involved with the murder and rape of a Gulfport girl weeks ago as well as the abduction of Mary Ann Favre, a Bay St. Louis girl.

A check with Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner revealed that he went to the Harrison County Sheriff's office Wednesday seeking pictures of the suspect and others in a Monday lineup for identification by Bay St. Louis residents in connection with the disappearance of Miss Favre.

Sheriff Ladner said that he was not notified of the Monday lineup in time to bring Bay St. Louis witnesses. He further explained that Bay residents reportedly seeing a black man answering a similar description of the Gulfport juvenile at about the same time and location where the Favre girl disappeared.

Ladner's request for another lineup is being considered by the Harrison County attorney.

The day of the lineup, Theodore Lawyer, defense attorney for the juvenile was asked to leave the courthouse by the Sheriff, because he was reportedly badgering the witnesses and it was reported Lawyer became involved in a heated argument with the county attorney.

Sen. John Stennis:

MTF now independent facility

"For the first time since the creation of the Mississippi test facility in 1961, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has taken official steps to make the installation a full partner within the NASA organization," Senator John C. Stennis said yesterday in Washington.

Stressing the importance of having the facility designated as a NASA permanent field installation, Sen. Stennis predicted that this change "will encourage federal agencies to move additional programs to the installation, thus creating more jobs for the people in the area."

In announcing the reorganization last Friday, NASA changed the name of the more than 140,000 acre site to the National Space Technology Laboratories. According to Stennis, "NASA has now recognized the value of the environmental and earth resources work being done at what is now NSTL." Stennis quoted Dr. James C. Fletcher, administrator of NASA, as having said, "The success ... of these mutually supporting activities has led me to decide that NSTL will have a prominent role in NASA's space applications and technology programs."

This is the first time since the severe reduction in testing first occurred that there has been a firm public commitment by NASA to the permanence and long range stability of the facility.

"This statement," Stennis said, "is much more than a personal commitment to me or the people of the area. This is an official commitment included in the NASA organization documents that control their operations."

Until last Friday's announcement, the Mississippi Test Facility had operated as a part of the Marshall Space Flight Center and reported directly to the Huntsville, Ala. installation. Stennis indicated that previously any efforts to improve and expand the Mississippi facility had to be first approved in Huntsville which itself was interested in additional programs. "Under the new arrangement, NSTL will work directly with NASA Headquarters in Washington," Stennis said.

During the past several months, Stennis has been actively investigating the low level of use by NASA and other federal agencies of the government-owned installation.

As a result of a series of conferences with local people, government officials and others knowledgeable about the situation, Stennis said it had been impressed on him that this organizational change "was absolutely essential to the future growth at the site."

The Mississippi legislature last March adopted a resolution specifically recommending these major changes.

Stennis continued by saying, "One fact became very apparent. Officials of several agencies were reluctant to expand their programs or move new programs to the installation because they were not convinced that NASA would continue to use and support the facility in the years ahead."

"Now that the National Space Technology Laboratory has been established as a NASA independent field installation, we have a NASA commitment of permanence which will go a long way toward overcoming this reluctance," Stennis said.

Noting that the name change gives the installation a "national mission", Stennis predicted that "other federal agencies would now view the possibility of moving there in a much more favorable light."

Referring to the pending space shuttle contract protest, Stennis stressed that these changes will in no way affect the ruling of the General Accounting Office expected next week. Stennis expressed the hope that the decision about the solid rocket motor contract "will be favorable to Mississippi."

"However," Stennis continued, "no matter what the ruling of the General Accounting Office may be concerning the space shuttle contract, these fundamental changes in the organization of the NASA installation will have far reaching benefits for years to come."

"Increases in employment at NSTL in its new mission will be in addition to the rocket testing already scheduled at the site," Stennis said. Plans now call for the huge test stands at the installation to be modified for testing of the space shuttle main engine.

Governor Waller:

Park means big, new industry

by Adoree Shortle
Echo News Editor

Despite a mid-afternoon torrential downpour more than 500 Hancock County residents turned out to greet Governor William Waller at Buccaneer State Park ground breaking ceremonies Tuesday.

Waller told the crowd, heavily laced with children participating in a special program for the ground breaking, that development of the $3-million recreational facility marks the beginning of "a big, new industry for Hancock County."

Waller received a standing ovation as he entered the new American Legion Home in Waveland, where the ceremonies were moved because of the inclement weather.

Obviously pleased with the warmth of his reception, Waller received cheers when he said "Hancock County has the friendliest people in the state". Later in his address, he praised local officials for their aggressiveness in attempts to protect the county's potentials and development of its economic growth.

Waller said Buccaneer State Park, formerly known as Jackson Ridge, is the first state park built since the 1950's and the first in Southern Mississippi since the '30's. He lauded the efforts of state park commissioners, several of whom attended the ceremony, and had special praise for Perry Gibson, state park commissioner and Hancock Chamber of Commerce vice-president who was coordinator of the ground breaking ceremony.

Earlier in the day, Waller met at the Port and Harbor offices with Port commissioners, members of the county board of supervisors and other local officials to discuss P&H industrial park development.

The governor noted that when the runway extension project is completed at Stennis International Airport it will "put the county on the map" and big national and international businesses will look at the county to establish operations here.

In reiterating those remarks at the ground breaking, Waller addressed himself to the many children participating in the special program saying, "Think about this. Some day you may look out your window and see one of those BIG 707 jets flying by on its way to Stennis Field."

The Legion Hall, built to hold 500, was filled to overflowing and uniforms were in evidence everywhere. Close to 100 Boy and Girl Scouts from troops, dens and packs all over the county participated, as well as about 60 uniformed members of Little League and Babe Ruth League teams. Waveland Jaycees were there in their blue vests and white shirts, Legionnaires and members of Bay and Waveland VFW posts mingled, each wearing the caps and badges of their organizations.

Bay-Waveland, Altruza Club members, serving refreshments to the crowd, were all dressed in ruffled floor length gowns and the Keesler band, which presented a 30 minute concert before the festivities, comprised a sea of "A-1" Force blue and brass.

Waveland City attorney Lucien Gex, Jr. served as master of ceremonies and gave special recognition to the children costumed for the Captain and Lady Buccaneer contest as well as all other youthful participants.

Later in the evening, as guest speaker for the Chamber of Commerce annual membership banquet, Waller rapped NASA and federal government officials for not living up to commitments at the test facility.

The test site has removed 40 percent of prime land from county tax roles, he pointed out, and the lack of utilization of the facility has imposed severe economic strains on the local people. He pledged to continue the fight to bring the solid rocket motor contract, under investigation now by the General Accounting Office, to the Hancock County site.

Property owners disconsolate over proposed Bay Marina

By Dan Barber

Approximately 25 persons Monday voiced their opposition to plans by the city of Bay St. Louis to construct a small boat marina and pier on property owned by American Legion Post 139 at the foot of Washington and Beach Boulevard.

The group which was composed of Bay St. Louis and Waveland property owners said that they were opposed to having the marina built in what they called a residential zone, although they were not opposed to the idea of the marina itself.

Joe Viguier, president of the Bay-Waveland Beachfront Property Owners Association and Waldo Otis who represented another faction of the group complained that the city's proposal was unfair to those property owners who would be most affected by the location of the marina.

Otis claimed property owners in the area of the marina would be faced with devaluation of their property, pollution and traffic problems in front of the marina, and the uncertainty that the city might allow more commercialization once zoning ordinances were changed.

Mayor Warren Carver and Commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner, who seemed taken completely off guard by the often belligerent property owners, tried to assure the group that what they feared most was not going to happen.

"We are not planning anything for this area that would be detrimental," Mayor Carver said.

Carver said that he could not see any reason why the marina would do anything but good for the area.

The mayor said the city and its engineers, Burk & Associates, had chosen the American Legion property as the most suitable location of the marina because it already represented a sizeable investment of money toward construction of the proposed $1,100,000 harbor and recreation area.

Carver said he would have to object to all of the group's claims that the marina would cause pollution, devalue property or cause traffic problems.

Larger building is asked

The Hancock County School Board approved a resolution Monday by attorney Joseph Gex seeking the County supervisors approval on a five year lease on a building at 119 Main Street in Bay St. Louis for future board expansion.

Gex said that the building would rent for $175 a month. The board would furnish fixtures and pay utilities. The lessor, Gex said, would carry insurance on the building.

The lease could be cancelled at any time by either party, Gex said, by 30 days written notice.

The county supervisors have already approved the board's request to move to a larger building.

In other business financial consultant Ed LeVasseur read the board a draft of a letter to the Government Services Administration Atlanta office requesting consideration of that office in leasing 320 acres of land in the NASA buffer zone for use by the county school system.

LeVasseur said that the land which was part of the Bosworth estate would be a beneficial supplement to the schools' general curriculum for outdoor study.

Included on the property are an Olympic size swimming pool and regulation tennis court.

The site, LeVasseur said, could become the center of the community.

Board attorney Joseph Gex said that the state attorney general's office had advised him that a letter was in the mail regarding the board's inquiry about holding a future bond election.

In other business the board refused to renew contracts with Harbin Saucier and Norman Ladner for operating school bus pickups for the 1974-75 school year.

In other matters the board approved final payment of $13,150.60 to George F. Hopkins for construction work at Hancock North Central School.

—accepted liability insurance from Hancock Insurance Agency for board members to and from meetings.

—asked LeVasseur to prepare a schedule of all personnel in the school system on a monthly pay-basis for consideration of raises.

—approved Ms. Denise Strahan as fourth grade teacher at Charles B. Murphy School.

—accepted resignations of Berdon Wedgeworth, Frances McDonald, Ramona Hoda, and Pinkie Page at Hancock North Central.

Br. Patrick makes vows

Brother Patrick McGinity, S. C., history teacher and coach at Bishop Dunne High School, took his perpetual vows as a Brother of the Sacred Heart June 9, 1974, at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

Brother Patrick entered the brotherhood August 24, 1964, in Mobile, Alabama, at Sacred Heart Scholasticate, and in 1968 he took his first vows at Metuchen, New Jersey. His first teaching assignment was in January of 1969 at Cor Jesu High School in New Orleans. He came to Bishop Dunne in September of 1969 and has taught theology, social studies and English. During the 1971-72 academic year Brother Patrick served as Chairman of the Social Studies Department.

As a member of the Dunne Athletic Department, Brother Patrick is serving as cross country coach and assistant track coach.

He received his bachelor's degree from Spring Hill College and this summer will be working on his master's degree in history at the University of Notre Dame.

Brother Patrick is a native of Bay St. Louis and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat McGinity of 307 DeMontuzin Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

City accepts bids

Work expected to start on street repairs, resurfacing

The City of Bay St. Louis accepted a bid package of $76,024 submitted by Huey Stockstill Contractors, Inc. of Piquette Monday to repair and resurface 15 city streets and an area in front of the police and fire station on Old Spanish Trail.

The only other bid submitted was from Breland Trucking and Construction Company of Gulfport for $95,501.50.

"We are extremely pleased with the bid prices," Commissioner Lucien Kidd said. Kidd said that the bid fell within the estimates of the engineering firm of Broadway and Seal, Piquette, and that the city should be able to do most of the work it had been trying to get satisfactory bids on since last January.

"I'm really glad we waited on this thing now," Kidd said. The city also accepted the recommendation of Kidd that Gulf Cities Testing Laboratory, Gulfport, be retained to test the asphalt for the street resurfacing.

The streets included in the package and the bids for each were Seventh Street-$7,480; Eighth Street-$7,480; Police and fire station-$7,729; Keller Street-$6,358; Keller Avenue-$1,107; Booker Street-$1,583; Agnes Street-$1,954.25; Union Street—"A"—$2,840; Union Street—"B"—$6,757.50; Carroll Avenue-$6,718; Dunbar Avenue-$3,065; Webster Street-$7,676; Ruella Avenue-$2,404.25; School Road-$5,685; Commagere Boulevard-$3,651; and Genin Street-$3,486.

In other business the council took under review a study for improvements to the Valen C. Jones Center submitted by Bill Argus of Blitch-Argus Ltd. architects.

Argus submitted itemized proposals totalling approximately $25,000.

The council decided to set up a list of priorities for the center after Carver said that the city only set aside $8,000 for improvements. Money for the improvements will come from revenue sharing funds.

In other business the city donated $278 to purchase a utility building for the county's National Guard Armory to use for storage of paint, lubricants, and tools for vehicles at the Armory.

The city also voted to accept the bid of Parker & Associates of Jackson, Miss. for $4,700 for waterproofing of the city hall and delayed action on employing Associated Consultants to do a house numbering system for the city after Mayor Carver said that the Mississippi Research and Development Center offered assistance in the matter.

A possible joint computer arrangement with Waveland and the county to handle tax rolls was outlined to the council by Finance Commissioner Clarence Ladner.

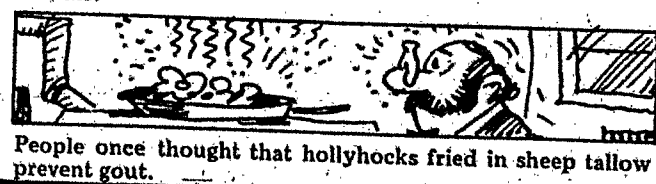

First year cost to the city, Ladner said, would be approximately $10,000 with costs decreasing to a yearly sum of about $4,000.

The council adopted a resolution in recognition of several Bay St. Louis youths who distinguished themselves, the resolution states, by their skill and devotion to the sport of tennis in local and state tournaments. The resolution names Susan Benvenuti and Tricia Dickinson, Our Lady of the Gulf School students, who captured the girl's doubles state championship and Katherine Johnson, Coast Episcopal student, and Perry Clinkscales, of Slidell, Louisiana, who were the state mixed doubles winners.

The resolution also names Barbara Margherino, Our Lady of the Gulf Academy, and Ann Johnson, Coast Episcopal, winner and runnerup in the state Jaycee tournament for 15-18 year olds; and Elizabeth Lagarde, OLA, and Holly Vegas, Coast-Episcopal, who place first and second respectively in the 14 and under age group of the state Jaycee tournament in Ocean Springs.

Special awards a highlight of Waveland Jaycee banquet

Special awards of recognition and appreciation were presented during an installation banquet Saturday night, hosted by the Waveland Jaycees.

Al Bourgeois, outgoing president, in outlining the club's accomplishments and development over the past year said, "We're a brand-new organization and we've come from infancy to maturity in the past year."

Addressing the members present, Bourgeois urged dedication to the ideals of Jayceism and work toward increased membership.

"We've made a commitment when we formed this chapter last year and now the community expects us to produce," he stated. He described the success of past programs such as the children's fishing rodeo, which drew an unexpected 200 participants and the equally successful bicycle rodeo; planned recreational activities and assistance to patients in the County Home and other projects for assistance to the city of Waveland.

Chapter members have installed litter barrels on stands in prominent places in the Waveland beaches and throughout town.

"There is a trend in the country today toward increased crime and lack of safety for our children," Bourgeois said. The Jaycee creed is aimed at inspiring young men of the community to combat downtowns and work toward general upgrading of the communities in which they are organized, he added.

Eugene Niolet, a Delisle resident, and Jaycee State director, failed to turn up for the banquet as installing officer so Bourgeois performed the ceremony in Niolet's absence.

Installed for 1974-75 were Al Von Antz, president; Al Bourgeois, internal vice-president; Lee Ashman, external vice-president; Don Breland, secretary; Ted Mamme, treasurer. Gene Greenwald was installed state director and local directors were Jay Harris, Norman Sonier and Richard Zitterkopf.

Special awards of appreciation for publicity and help in furthering Jaycee programs were presented to the Sea Coast Echo and Radio station WPUP. Echo publisher Ed Hall accepted the newspaper award and station manager Don Moore accepted the radio award.

Another special award of appreciation went to Mrs. Tuleter Oliver, manager of Six Acres Restaurant, where the banquet was held. In presenting the citation, Bourgeois said, "Mrs. T gave us a home when we were brand new and didn't have a place to meet and she is very special to us."

An Outstanding Jaycee Wife award went to Linda Von Antz, wife of the new president who "dedicated herself and her time to all the past year's Jaycee activities, along with other Jaycee wives."

Bourgeois presented the following Jaycee awards: Spark Plug, Richard Zitterkopf; Award for Most Time and Effort, Lee Ashman; Speak Up for area meetings, Zitterkopf; Speak Up for local meetings, Gene Greenwald; Reslie Dorn; Outstanding Chairman, Al Von Antz; Outstanding Director, Wesley Dorn; for recruiting most members, Von Antz.

At the conclusion of the program, Bourgeois "handed down" the president's pin to Von Antz, who in turn presented Bourgeois a plaque of appreciation from the club for "enabling us to move forward and for total dedication to the club."

The next GED test is scheduled to be given June 28 and June 29 at the Hancock County Vo-Tech Center. Non-high school adults who are interested in meeting the requirements for a certificate of high school equivalency should obtain a test application form from the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center at Stennis Field. The application must be approved prior to the testing dates.

The 1973 GED Annual National Statistical Report reveals that the total number of examinations administered increased by 8,870 over 1972 from 430,346 to 440,216. The number of official GED Centers increased from 1,997 to 2,135. The number of individuals tested in Mississippi in 1973 was 4,663 and the number of centers increased from 33 to 40.

Al Bourgeois, guidance counselor and local examiner, states that the increase in the total number of examinations administered and the increase in number of official GED centers in the United States and territories during the past year strongly emphasizes the necessity of education. Technological changes, automation, and other changes which are rapidly occurring in this society will continue to increasingly demand more education.

A parting gift

U. S. District Court Judge Dan Russell offered praise and congratulations Wednesday night to outgoing Rotary president Fred Fisher during the group's banquet at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club. Fisher retired the gavel to the hands of Dick Thomas, who will succeed Fisher in the president's chair. Mrs. Fisher is at left.

Thomas installed at Rotary banquet

Dick Thomas was installed as new president of Bay St. Louis Rotary International last Wednesday during ceremonies at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club as outgoing president Fred Fisher put down the gavel.

Nicholas Haas was installed as the organization's new vice-president, supplanting Thomas. Gus Uram remained secretary-treasurer of the organization, and Hug Miller remained sergeant-at arms.

Fisher announced that Thomas would be left with the responsibility of raising money for a new paging system at Hancock Memorial Hospital as a special project to celebrate the Rotary's 50th anniversary in Bay St. Louis.

U. S. District Court Judge Dan Russell, guest speaker for the night, reminded members that the Rotary was fundamentally a philosophy of life.

Russell, a past president of the organization himself in 1945, opened his remarks with a few anecdotes about his years on the bench.

"These days", Russell said, "a judge never knows what he says until it is writ."

"And there are some it's said," Russell continued, "that feel when they were appointed they were also anointed."

In a more serious mood, the judge outlined the duties of the president and the fundamentals that the Rotary was based on.

There is no better summation of what the Rotary stands for, Russell said, than in the words of the Rotarian motto "He who profits most, serves best."

Service above money, power or prestige is fundamental to the Rotary, Russell said.

"Sometimes we wonder if we've done enough for our community, if we've done the right thing or said the right thing," Russell said.

"Sometimes that gets pretty hard when there are personal ambitions and human frailties involved," he added.

Folk musical set for Baptist

Stennis announces MTF reclassification

Senator John C. Stennis announced Friday a NASA decision to establish the Mississippi Test Facility in Hancock County as a NASA independent field installation and change its name to the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL).

"The changes are effective immediately," Stennis said, and predicted that "efforts to increase its use by NASA and other federal agencies will now be more successful than ever before."

"With this institutional change, the installation will become an equal partner with other NASA installations and report directly to NASA Headquarters in Washington rather than through the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama," Stennis revealed.

"I had long been convinced that MTF having to work through the Marshall Center was a major obstacle to the facility's growth," Stennis said.

Stennis revealed that during numerous personal conferences with Dr. Fletcher, Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, he had stressed "the importance of allowing MTF to stand on its own and work directly with NASA Headquarters."

"I am extremely pleased that Dr. Fletcher and other NASA officials have officially recognized the unique value of the work being done at MTF and agree that it should be established as a separate installation," Stennis said.

"The name change, to the National Space Technology Laboratories," Stennis said, "is designed to better describe the activities located at the facility now, in addition to its continued rocket testing activities."

Last week, Senator Stennis announced the appointment of former Astronaut Russell L. Schweickart as the senior NASA Headquarters official in charge of encouraging greater use of the installation by NASA and other federal agencies. Commenting on the organizational change, Stennis said, "with the creation of the National Space Technology Laboratories, Mr. Schweickart's efforts can be intensified and I will lend every assistance possible."

In April of this year, Senator Stennis notified the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) of his concern about the low level of activity and employment at MTF. Stennis emphasized to Roy Ash, Director of OMB, that location of other federal agencies at MTF would result in "outstanding potential for savings to the government."

On this front, Stennis revealed today that the Office of Management and Budget, with his encouragement, has also requested NASA to conduct a survey of other federal agencies to further encourage them to make greater use of the installation.

Stennis also revealed that OMB in a letter to Dr. Fletcher has pledged support for the "increased use of the facilities where such usages would be cost effective and productive in meeting agency goals and objectives."

"The interest expressed by OMB," Stennis said, "is extremely important because it overcomes spending by all federal agencies. Support from this agency will go a long way in helping efforts to increase programs and employment at the National Space Technology Laboratories." The MTF was created in 1961 and was originally used for test firing of the huge Saturn rockets used in the moon shots.

Since the phase down of this testing program, the installation has concentrated its efforts in a variety of research and technical activities primarily related to environmental and earth resources.

Memorial fund proposed

A Caroline Kiefer Memorial Fund dedicated to the use of students in theatre arts is the goal of the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre.

It will perpetuate the memory of the late Caroline Kiefer, an honorary lifetime member of the Little Theatre, one of its star actresses, directors, producers, and one of the theatre's most ardent supporters. It is designed to provide grants-in-aid to collegians majoring in drama and related stage crafts, probably to be structured on a delayed, low-interest, loan basis.

Mr. Joseph Marocino, president, said at the June 11 meeting of the board of directors that members of the theatre will receive a letter proposing the fund, which speaks of Caroline Kiefer's loss as a "void in our organization which will be impossible to fill."

To her "the Bay-Waveland theatre goes owe many delightful evenings," he said. She directed such plays as Stalag 17, Mr. Roberts, Teahouse of the August Moon, The Velvet Glove, and the last theatre offering — her "swan song" she called it — Last of the Red Hot Lovers.

No one who saw her act will ever forget her performances on the stage, among them the role of Big Mama in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof. It is hoped that not only theatre members but all whose lives and interests Caroline Kiefer touched in the Chamber of Commerce, Gulf Coast cultural movements, and Latin American trade circles will give support to the fund in memory of this remarkable citizen.

Missionary celebrants

Missionaries celebrate 40 years in priesthood

Four Divine Word Missionaries, Rev. Anthony Bourges, SVD., Rev. Andrew Masters, SVD., Rev. Maurice Rousseve, SVD., and Rev. Francis Wade, SVD., celebrated their 40th anniversaries in the priesthood June 7 at a consecrated Mass at 10 a.m. in Divine Word Seminary Chapel.

Bishop Joseph Brunini, Natchez-Jackson Diocese, Bishop Harold Perry, SVD., New Orleans, and Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor Our Lady of the Gulf Church, were among celebrants of the Mass. Father Bourges has been pastor of St. Gabriel's, Mound Bayou, Miss., since 1972. Born in Lafayette, La., in 1904, he began his training as a Divine Word Missionary in 1921 at Divine Word Seminary and was ordained in Bay St. Louis in 1934. Father Bourges has spent all of his years in Parish work.

Father Masters, born in 1909, was ordained a Divine Word Missionary in 1934, in Techny, Ill. He studied Canon Law in Rome and taught at St. Richards' College in England from 1938 to 1946. He served as secretary to the Apostolic delegate in South Africa from 1946 to 1947, then as pastor of churches in the Southern Province in Louisiana and Mississippi. He is currently associate pastor at Belle Chase, La.

Father Rousseve has been pastor of St. Joseph's in Maurice, La., since 1972. Born in New Orleans in 1906, Father Rousseve began his studies for the priesthood in 1920. He was ordained a Divine Word Missionary at Divine Word Seminary in 1934 and has dedicated all of his priestly life to parish work.

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

If this column has done nothing else, it has set some people to thinking about their "innocent" drug-taking behavior, and the letters of inquiry that we have received have, in turn, set me to thinking! There have been several questions from readers about tranquilizers. One reader asked if tranquilizers were addicting; another asked if she could drink while taking tranquilizers; another said that he had been taking them for five years and couldn't seem to get off them. I thought that a column all about tranquilizers should answer most questions and started to write a very erudite article about the differences between major and minor tranquilizers.

"The major tranquilizers are used for major mental problems, acute and chronic psychotic states, and they are used a great deal in mental hospitals. These tranquilizers (like Thorazine and Stelazine, have been a boon to humanity and have helped to stabilize individuals in everyday life who might otherwise have to spend extended periods of time in hospitals. These tranquilizers are seldom, if ever, abused. The minor tranquilizers are for minor mental problems, a mild anxiety, tension or nervousness. They are also used as muscle relaxants, for allergies and for nausea. These are drugs such as Miltown, Equanil, Librium, and Valium, and these ARE sometimes abused."

At this point I began to do some serious thinking, reading, and studying about these minor tranquilizers and realized that until then I had been thinking about tranquilizers as a doctor rather than a drug abuse worker. I had been thinking about how easy it was to prescribe Valium or Librium whenever a patient complained of nervousness. (These drugs still are not under federal control as abused substances.) I remembered how readily I had prescribed them. Then I realized those facts were not the answers to the readers' questions.

Over 80 million prescriptions a year are written for Librium and Valium alone in just the United States and cost the patients almost $500 million. As there are only 200 million Americans and not all of them are on tranquilizers, and inasmuch as there are many other tranquilizers (Miltown and Equanil just to mention two) I began to see a real pattern of abuse. Soon I realized the importance of those very questions you readers had asked.

Yes... tranquilizers can be abused and are being abused; and yes, if one takes too many, he can become ADDICTED. At this point it is important to remember once again that taken as prescribed — by a physician, these drugs are of great benefit and will not harm an individual.

It is when one does NOT follow the doctor's orders that the trouble begins. Minor tranquilizers, like barbiturates, sleeping pills, can be addicting. Tolerance does develop to them and one may begin to take more than the doctor suggested. Soon he feels the need for more and so on until a large number are being taken.

There is psychological dependence to tranquilizers and one may begin to depend upon the effect and think he "must" take them in order to cope with the problems of everyday living.

There is physical dependence when a person has increased his dose beyond the doctor's orders and has come to depend upon them physically. If physical dependence does occur and one is taking large numbers of tranquilizers every day, he could go through withdrawal if he stopped taking them.

Have you ever wondered about the part profits play in our free enterprise system? Profits create new products, new industries, new services and new jobs. The evidence is all around us. Just look at the fantastic growth of many Mississippi industries.

This growth is reflected in the steady rise of our standard of living. Our per capita income has doubled during the past eight years. But, not knowing the facts, some people may think that there have been equally big gains in profits. That is probably why a recent survey shows many people think business makes a profit margin on sales of 28 per cent after taxes.

Try a quick estimate of the correct figure. Would you believe 5 per cent? That's it for manufacturing industries. And in retailing and construction, it's only 1.4 per cent.

Business profit by serving the consumer well... and we're all consumers. On the other hand, unprofitable businesses cannot even provide well for their own employees. So, profit is not just some accumulation of dollars... it serves many vital functions, including helping to finance business growth through retained earnings and paying for the use of capital through dividends.

Like many businesses, we at South Central Bell have taken steps to save energy, including: reducing office lighting levels, turning down thermostats, and reducing the speed limit of company vehicles to 55 m.p.h.

These and other steps we've taken are producing significant energy savings when applied to our company buildings and vehicles throughout Mississippi. Your telephone system depends on energy resources and petrochemical products. It uses electricity to transmit voice and data signals, to power telephone workings and to insulate telephone cables and fuels to operate various pumps and engines. It's a complex system of work. Fortunately, your phone system is a constant source of electricity. So handle as many as possible of your energy and shopping by phone. You'll save energy and time.

Which way did the battle go?

The battle moves now to the test site, formerly known as NASA-Mississippi Test Facility, renamed last Friday as the National Space Technology Laboratories. The 140,000 acre site has gone up and down in national prominence and headlines like a yo-yo, bringing Hancock County with it like the yo-yo's string - up into national attention, down into obscurity, from whence it came. Right now, we're somewhere in between.

Sometimes in the great political wars it's hard to tell the actors without a program, particularly as so many are professionals, adept at changing roles at the drop of a vote. A quick lineup of the current encounter finds Governor Bill Waller and State Senator Martin Smith as the southern division of two into full pitched battle with the federal forces at the Washington level (seems like we've been this route before).

In the other camp there are the bureaucrats doing their bureaucratic thing, headed by NASA, Dr. James Fletcher, and Senator Stennis, more or less in that order. Stennis gets top billing in the Congressional delegation because his name seems to come to the fore more often than the others - and we strongly suspect - he is more at the other end of that yo-yo string.

It started when NASA threw the $100 million plus solid-rocket motor contract to Utah. Sen. Smith cried foul and quickly recruited an army to back his MTF thrust. At that point and for several months, Sen. Smith was looking like the Lone Ranger facing the whole Indian nation. Volleys fired by Lockheed, Smith and our local political subdivisions fell short of the mark, or at the most, seemed ineffective against the powerful NASA vanguards.

Washington took an appeasement tack, which it is commonly held at the top levels, is the best method of dealing with the backwoods masses (that's us in Mississippi they're talking about). NASA concended to appoint a used astronaut to move among the governmental agencies and sell real estate in MTF.

Refusing to be taken in by that approach, Smith moved the battle to another site - he called for an investigation into the contract award by the most powerful of all agencies, the General Accounting Office, whose probing eyes can make Presidents quake.

Gov. Waller got into the fray and a week ago Monday he and Sen. Smith attacked the main forces at headquarters. Their weapons were the hard facts of economic logic, i.e. why build and test rockets in a state that is thousands of miles from where they are to be used, rather than in a neighboring state; why ship the hardware overland from Utah at excessively high freight rates when they could be barged from Mississippi at a faster and lower rate; why spend more millions building a facility in Utah when there is already one built and available in Mississippi; why favor a state with a high employment ratio over a county with the lowest per capita income in the states and one of the highest unemployment rates.

Gov. Waller, who has a propensity for candor and not pulling punches, also told the GAO and congressional officials that in his opinion NASA had "falsified some of the facts" submitted as its reason for awarding the contract to Utah. He hinted darkly at collusion naming NASA administrator Dr. Fletcher in particular, as being suspect in his motives.

Three days after that confrontation, Sen. Stennis made the announcement of the reclassification of the test site as well as its name change. We're giving MTF a new look, they said in effect, and a new guardian angel. Space exploration is declass, environmental research is the coming mode so let's go with the times. The releases hinted at nebulous great things some where in the far future. (The Hancock backwoods masses have heard that line before, too).

The obvious hand slap angered Waller, and no less Sen. Smith both of whom said Tuesday in Hancock county that they won't buy that kind of tokenism. If the federal government won't use the site as it should be used then give it back and we'll use it, Waller shouted to a cheering crowd. It's all Washington's fault, was the battle cry.

A release from Stennis' office Wednesday made a brief reference to a Mississippi legislative resolution last March concerning the test site. A check in our files revealed that at that time, Senate concurrent resolution 809 specifically asked that the name be changed "to better describe the new role that the space technology center would assume" in the future and, most important, that the center "be established as a separate and independent installation, reporting directly to NASA headquarters."

What has just been done in Washington is no more than a concurrence of our own state legislative wishes.

We still agree with the governor that facts bear out the strong possibility of ulterior motives on the part of the NASA organization and probable collusion in the Congressional camp.

However, Washington has at this point in the war, a forceful weapon. . . our own state legislative action. It will be interesting to see how the governor and Sen. Smith overcome this one.

PESTICIDE SAFETY HABITS

Is it safe for you to use pesticides in your home? That depends on you! If you follow safe habits in the purchase, storage, use and disposal of a pesticide, you should have no problem. Read and study the following safety habits:

PURCHASE

Don't be in a hurry. Take your time deciding upon the type pesticide that best suits your needs.

Read the label to determine if it will control the pest you're after.

How do you apply it? Do you have the necessary equipment?

STORAGE

Always store out of reach of children and never near food, medicine or cleaning supplies.

Read the label. It may have special precautions about storage.

Always keep in the original container and make sure the label stays clean where you can easily read it.

USE

Read the label each time before use. Don't rely on your memory.

Remove children, pets, and the pets' food and water dishes before applying. Also remove bird and fish bowls.

Don't spray the entire floor, walls or ceiling. Pesticides should be applied only to limited surfaces in your home. Never allow pesticides to get on food, dishes, pots or pans.

Don't smoke while using the pesticide.

Don't combine different pesticides. Don't let children help.

When finished, wash your face and hands with soap and water. If you've spilled pesticides on your clothes, take them off and wash them.

FLEXING HIS MUSCLES

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

The Confederate States had a hard time making up their minds what flag they would follow into battle. In all, there were five different banners approved by the Confederacy, and some of the States had their own banners.

The first was the "bonnie blue flag". A business man from an eastern city happened to be in Jackson, Mississippi, on the day on which the State Legislature voted to secede from the Union, and was so inspired that he immediately wrote the words to the song The Bonnie Blue Flag which later was adopted by the Confederate Congress as the national song or anthem. It was sung extensively through the South until Dixie swept through the army, and after that, of course, there was no further question about a national anthem.

The bonnie blue banner was soon replaced by the Stars and Bars which had seven stars on a blue field and two broad red and one white stripe. But this, at a distance, looked too much like the Union Stars and Stripes, so it also was replaced after First Manassas by the "battle flag" which carried 13 stars on a blue cross with red inserts.

The fourth flag was a large white banner with the "battle flag" in the upper left-hand corner. Photographs taken during the siege of Fort Sumter show this flag streaming from the ramparts after the surrender of the fort, and another photograph taken inside the fort shows the Stars and Bars floating over some captured artillery. The white flag however looked too much like a flag of truce even with the battle flag in the corner; so it was little used and in the last year of the war a broad red stripe was added to it.

Of all the five flags, the so-called battle flag was the most used and best loved by Confederate soldiers. It is the one used today for all memorial and nostalgic rallies.

Several of the Confederate States also had their own identifying flags under which their troops went into battle, but Mississippi was the only one which followed through with the battle ensign, combining it with three broad red, white and blue horizontal stripes. Georgia used a modification of the battle flag and South Carolina's banner was reminiscent of the old bonnie blue flag.

It would be interesting sometime to count the number of engagements fought under the old battle flag; there must have been hundreds of them, and in each one Southern soldiers suffered death and wounds. No wonder it is still revered throughout the South as the emblem of courage and devotion to a cause which, though lost, was the summit of man's hope and effort.

County Agent's Notes

John W. Smith, County Agent

FERTILIZATION

Due to shortage many crops were planted without adequate fertilizer. If you did not get all of your mixed fertilizer down before planting your row crops, put down enough to bring it up to the full rate as a sidedressing. Do this as soon after planting as possible.

It is best to apply the fertilizer in the soil or work it into the soil during early season cultivation.

Nitrogen as sidedressing should be applied to cotton before first squaring, to corn when it is a foot high and to sorghum when it is 10 inches tall. If you are growing corn or sorghum for silage, you will need higher rates of nitrogen and potash.

Some folks are asking about using urea for nitrogen, particularly as a sidedressing for row crops. Urea must convert to the nitrate form before plants can use it to any extent, but with the high temperatures this time of year, this conversion takes place fast.

When applied in the soil or to the soil surface, urea is a satisfactory source of nitrogen for all row crops. As a sidedressing, it should be applied a few days earlier than nitrate forms of nitrogen. Urea is also satisfactory for topdressing summer pastures.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

LAND-USE LEGISLATION

A wise man once noted that if you give Uncle Sam an inch, you can expect him to take a mile every time.

That point came home loud and clear last week when the House of Representatives rejected a controversial land-use planning bill. It started out as a reasonable piece of legislation, but it bit the dust when its supporters let it get out of hand.

The vote was close, 211-204, but this time an inch was every bit as good as a mile. This particular bill just simply was much too ambitious.

While other land-use bills might be more acceptable, I pointed out to my colleagues, H.R. 10294 was a classic example of the federal government going too far.

Basically, the bill would give states $100 million a year for eight years to encourage them to plan the use of land for shopping centers and large housing developments, around airports and highway interchanges and in areas of "critical environmental concern." If a state didn't take part, that state would simply lose the money.

Opponents successfully argued that the bill would substitute federal control of land for state and local zoning. They said it would throttle progress. And they said that by restricting what an owner can do with his land, it could amount to confiscation without compensation.

Right there, friends, is where the trouble begins.

The American Conservative Union said that law would "extend the powers of eminent domain to include confiscation of property without compensation."

The National Taxpayers' Union saw it this way: "... there is another grave danger in this legislation, and that is that it is likely to institutionalize bad choices and bad decisions."

The Mississippi Forestry Association, an organization representing small-tract tree farmers, urged the House Interior Committee to "hold hearings in all sections of the country so that you can see that private ownership of property, and its concurrent historical right to decide how the land will be used, is one of our nation's greatest strengths."

The Louisiana Cattlemen's Association also urged public hearings "in the rural areas of the states . . . since this proposed legislation is so far-reaching in its effects and since it would have such an impact on both local and state governments, as well as the individual property owner."

The bill really never should have reached the "House floor" in the first place. In late February the House Rules Committee postponed indefinitely consideration of the bill by a 9-4 vote. This decision was interpreted to mean that the Interior Committee should conduct further hearings on, and modifications of, the proposal.

In late April the Interior Committee held three days of hearings at which 43 of 60 witnesses testified in opposition to the bill and urged the chairman to hold field hearings. Instead, the bill was brought back to Rules where the Interior chairman indicated that the results of his April hearings produced: "some in favor, some against."

The bill, as it turns out, eventually did reach the floor. Enough members, however, saw enough flaws in it to reject it.

And in this particular case, it was a wise move.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

Never before have I written a letter to the editor, as I find more things right with our community and our county than I find wrong, but now I must voice my opinion of the Buccaneer Park Contest held at the ground breaking on Tuesday.

The children who entered the contest were never allowed to pass in review for the audience or the judges. Were the winners pre-arranged? As a teacher of American History, I must be teaching an idealistic form of government, because each day I find it harder to believe the foundations of our society are democratic.

Yes, my child was one of the winners, and she was in costume, but most of the boy and girl winners were hardly in keeping with the theme of the contest.

When or how the winners were chosen was never revealed to the audience or participants.

If there is ever another contest in this county then I hope the American Legion will please research how one should be handled. There must have been many disappointed girls, boys, and parents who went to the trouble to make Buccaneer Park Day a success, and then never got to see their children pass across the stage.

If the winners were picked from the audience, then some had not put on their complete costumes ahead of time.

If the winners were pre-picked, then shame on you, ladies!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Charles E. Carter Jr.

Dear Editor:

Just a thought, why can't we have an investigation of Hancock County to see where our tax dollars go?

Ever since Camille I've tried to find out. Look at the seawall tax - it goes to the Port and Harbor. Take the bond issues, one was for the seawall, one for the streets. The seawall never did get finished and the streets never did get paved in Waveland. When you wind up everything is gone and nothing is done. Like one politician said "he doesn't have to tell anyone where he spends the money."

Another instance, the We Care money, to which children gave their pennies to help people here. The people only got a token amount of it and then it was all gone.

Now to get to the point I am writing about. There is a dedicated street named Pine which runs along side of my property. I don't know if people bought the street or if it was sold to them but they are taking out ground and running sewerage and water through it and won't take it off our lane and put it where it belongs in the street in the first place, because I'm a no name person and on Social Security. But if I was a name person it would have been moved right now and put in the street.

But what your name is is what counts. In Waveland they told me they would see what they can do for me on my private ground and up to now nothing has been done so you can see I'm a no name person. Now to get justice done I'm writing Governor Waller and asking him to furnish me with a lawyer to make them take it off my land and put it in the street.

If I can't get help from the governor, I'll write to the President of the United States and ask for help because we haven't the money to have a lawyer. And to think only six blocks away they gave a lawyer a fantastic price for his ground and it was swamp ground, but mine they just took.

I thought the revenue sharing was to help the public but it's just like everything else, we never see a thing to help the people. They say give a man the power to tax, he shall destroy and that's true.

Now when they want something they tell the lawyer to write an ordinance and they don't care if it's unconstitutional or not because you need a lawyer to find out who in Waveland can do that. What I'm trying to say is anything goes in Waveland if your name is right. I'm writing papers all over Mississippi telling them what they are doing to Mr. Will in Waveland.

Yours,
George H. Will, Sr.

SEARS CUP - Bubby Eagan came through with flying colors to win the Sears Cup Quarter Finals for the North American Junior Sailing Championship. Ellen Eagan and Chris Stieffel displayed excellent teamwork as Bubby's crew in the five race Flying Scot round robin sailed at Southern Yacht Club June 15-16.

Saturday's races were long and arduous in light, fluky, northerly breezes, but the Bay Waveland team exhibited perseverance in the trying circumstances to finish the first day's races with a first and two-thirds, one point behind first place Tom Whitehurst of Pensacola Yacht Club.

Sunday morning the wind picked up to about 25 mph building up large waves which did not subside when the wind dropped after the start of the last race. Eagan finished second in both of Sunday's races ahead of Tom Whitehurst, giving him an overall first place for the Series.

Whitehurst finished second and also qualified for the Semi-Finals to be sailed in Thistles at Lake Carlyle, Ill. July 27-28.

D. VERNER SMYTH TROPHY - Also at Southern Yacht Club last weekend Rod Stieffel won another trophy for Bay Waveland in the Quarter Finals of the North American Junior Single-handed Sailing Championship. Rod competed in Sunfish, with two first place finishes and one second. Kenneth Moran of Southern Yacht Club was second and also qualified for the Smyth Semi-Finals to be sailed concurrently with the Sears at Lake Carlyle, Ill.

MOBILE SUMMER REGATTA - Bay Waveland won another GYA Capdeville Regatta last weekend at Mobile Yacht Club. With Kay Kergosien and Buzzy Heausler crewing, Charlie Staehle won the first of the three race series. Not to be outdone, Buzzy got another first in the second race with Kay and Charlie crewing. Breeze was almost non-existent for the final race Sunday morning, but Cindy Stieffel, with Buzzy and Charlie crewing, came from last place to finish fourth, earning sufficient points for an overall first.

Final standings:

BWYC 5%
Pensacola Yacht Club 5%
Pontchartrain Yacht Club 8
Mobile Yacht Club 15
St. Andrew's Bay Yacht Club 16
Ft. Walton Yacht Club 16
Buccanier Yacht Club 17

SEMINAR - The sailors of Bay Waveland received some invaluable training at the RULES SEMINAR conducted by Harry Chapman June 8 and June 15 at the club. Learning the racing rules is a vital part of competition, and it was made very interesting by one who has had so much experience on the race course.

BAIL THE BILGE - Lots of new faces were seen among the big crowd of members and guests at Saturday night's Bail the Bilge. A beautiful array of delicious hors d'oeuvres were served by hosts Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heitkamp, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Tudury, Mr. and Mrs. William Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Benvenuti, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Williams, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Staehle.

P. J. Mauffray, left and J. P. Overall find that learning is a fun game while Pines Day Care Center director Mrs. Marie Guenard, looks on.

Center teaches small fry to Learn, Love, Live

by Adoree Shortle Echo/News Editor
The words Listen, Learn, Love, Look, Live in mammoth fire engine red letters are written across the buttermilk yellow wall of one of the rooms.

Those words pretty well sum up the atmosphere of the Pines Day Care Center for children, recently opened by the Lutheran Church of the Pines in Waveland.

Operating in the church's newly-renovated Sunday School wing, the Center offers complete day care for children on a year round basis. The Center is under the direction of Mrs. Marie Guenard, girls' athletic director at Christ Episcopal Day School in the Bay.

In the front a nap room is equipped with cribs and playpens and the office has space for isolating any small person who turns up sick and is waiting to be picked up.

The room with the big red letters is for learning. Shelves line three walls with a myriad of books and baskets with art supplies. Big tissue-paper butterflies, the results of an afternoon's art session, cover another wall. An extremely talented artist, Mrs. Guenard designed and executed all decor, wall paintings and accessories for the Center.

"The Center's program is geared to more than just baby-sitting," Mrs. Guenard said. "We offer to each child instruction in pre-school skills, a physical fitness program stressing balance and coordination as well as encouragement in music, art and creativity."

A daily story hour with puppets, books, slides and pictures aids in the development of a healthy imagination and teaches moral and social values, she explained.

The children are given a hot lunch every day with mid-morning and mid-afternoon snacks. Everybody takes a nap and a fenced play yard with some interesting play equipment provides outdoor exercise.

Trained staff members working with Mrs. Guenard are Mmes. Jeanne Richard-heavy use can produce vomiting, headaches, fever, anxiety, lack of co-ordination, convulsions, and, in some rare instances, death. Again... this does NOT happen if the doctor's orders are followed and the drugs are properly USED... only when they are ABUSED.

Drugs and your health

No, you should never drink alcoholic beverages while taking tranquilizers. As happens with all downers, when you add alcohol and a pill, the effect multiplies so that one plus one equals six or more. There have been accidental deaths as a result of mixing tranquilizers and alcohol... especially when both are being abused. And one should not drive if taking tranquilizers as they have sedative action and can cause impaired judgment.

We are no longer in the world of the "young doper". The "over-thirty" group are the prime abusers of tranquilizers, many without even being aware of what they are doing. We must realize that Madison Avenue hucksters and pharmaceutical companies have created the modern image of "a pill for every ill". Isn't it possible to go through a day, a week, or a month without taking a pill? When physicians prescribe medication, we probably need it; when we self-medicate, we are on the pathway that can lead to abuse. Think on it!

Physician opens practice in Bay St. Louis

Mrs. Mona Santiago, administrator of Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis, has announced the arrival Monday of Dr. John Knox Wilson, who will join the medical staff of the hospital and open offices in Bay St. Louis for the practice of general medicine.

Dr. Wilson will locate in the Colonial Plaza complex on Highway 90 in the Bay, with office hours from 9 a.m. to 12:30 and 2 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Dr. Wilson comes to the Bay from Raleigh, Miss., where he has been in private practice for the past 11 and a half years.

Residents protest Marina . . .

A great wave of dissent was voiced by the group after Carver said that a survey of every real estate broker in town had confirmed the fact that not only would the marina not devalue property but would probably cause an increase in property value in that area.

Carver said the group's objection to pollution problems was not valid either since the city was regulated in this regard by the federal government.

He added that the city did not foresee any traffic problems created by the marina due to design, but that in the unlikely event, the city had auxiliary police that could handle any problems of this nature.

One of the most vocal and belligerent critics of the city's proposal, Dr. Edmund Sullivan, who said he grew up in Bay St. Louis where his mother still had property, said he was confused over the whole matter.

"One, why are we building this thing?" Sullivan asked. "Because the city presently doesn't have one single recreation area," Carver responded.

Tender Loving Care

Two Hancock General RN's Irma Day and Nelda Doss are spending the week at Howard Memorial Hospital participating in a special in-service on "Cardiac Nursing".

Sissie Stewart (Medical Records), became the wife of Corky Schindler this past weekend. Congratulations to the new couple.

Verna Barabino and Carmen Montgomery (Dietary) travelled to Panama City, Florida this past weekend to visit with Mrs. Barabino's son Oscar.

Juvenile . . .

(Continued from Page 1-A) entered the case late Tuesday afternoon to investigate the possibility of a kidnapping charge of the Bay girl. Photos were shown to several residents of the suspect and others but at press time no further information was available.

Three females positively identified the man as the one who pointed and aimed the weapon on the one Long Beach charge. The other three rest with the Pass Christian Police department.

"Well who is going to utilize this marina," Sullivan asked. "Where are you going to get the boats to put in there?" Commissioner Kidd said that the survey done by the engineers showed that one out of every 10 residents in Hancock County had a boat registered to them.

"Most of these people are presently forced to keep their boats in their backyards," Kidd said, "because there are waiting lists at every marina on the coast."

"Don't you have a yacht club," Sullivan asked. "If I had a boat I wouldn't keep it here. You don't have any restaurants, dancing, nightclubs, etc. I'd rather drive 10 minutes on the expressway to dock my boat."

"How are you going to pay for this thing," he continued. Carver explained that the city would have to hold a referendum on a bond issue covering the 50 percent matching funds for the city's share of the cost.

"And the taxpayers are going to have to pay for a marina that is commercially not feasible," Sullivan said. Sullivan said that city had no economic base to support such a proposal. Mayor Carver countered that the city had to make a start somewhere adding that he believed the marina would bring in other things.

Many of the complaints leveled against the proposal protested that the marina would destroy the quiet, secluded nature of the town. "Do you want to turn your town into another Biloxi or Gulfport?" one irate lady asked.

Other women made sentimental speeches about the quiet loveliness of the area, claiming it was an injustice to everyone to destroy it.

"You asked if we wanted to become a thriving community like Gulfport or Biloxi," Commissioner Ladner said. "That depends on who you are talking to. There are other people besides yourselves in this town who pay taxes."

The mayor said that he would be glad to consider another location for the marina should the group make another feasible suggestion. "You all have apparently made up your minds to go ahead with this," Otis said. "I think any further shouting and arguing is fruitless. The only recourse now, I think, is to let the courts decide this."

"I think we are all in agreement that we would like recreation," Otis said, "but first it's not fair to these property owners and second I question the legality of it."

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS MOREL III

Miss McGinity is wed to Louis Morel

Miss Kathleen Lind McGinity, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick E. McGinity of Bay St. Louis, Miss., and Louis Morel III, son of Louis Morel Jr. of Buras, La. and Mrs. Geraldine Dennis of Des Allemands, La. were united in marriage at an 8 p.m. Nuptial Mass June 14 in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church with Very Rev. Gregory Johnson, pastor, officiating. Brother Patrick McGinity S.C., brother of the bride, served as commentator.

The double ring ceremony was performed before members of the immediate families.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off-white silk polyester gown fashioned on Princess lines with a lace yoke. The skirt flowed into a Cathedral length train. Her elbow length veil of illusion was enhanced with lace flower appliques and she carried a white missal and a single long stem white rose. Her only jewelry was a gold pendant, a gift of the groom.

Miss Sherry McGinity was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a navy floor length Princess styled dress with a white large brimmed hat and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Paul Morel, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a family reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, DeMontuzin Avenue.

For her wedding trip to Panama City, Florida, the bride chose an off white and tan check pantsuit with a corsage of daisies.

The couple will make their home in Buras, La. where he is employed by Shell Pipeline of Nairn, La.

Pre-nuptial party honors Janet Sallinger

Mr. and Mrs. Leon McQueen of Picayune entertained at a dinner following the wedding rehearsal in honor of Miss Janet Sallinger and Kelly McQueen at Holiday Inn, Slidell, La., June 13.

Tables in the private dining room were decorated with arrangements of white carnations and blue starflowers interspersed with blue and white gingham check ribbon. Matching napkins were used in the blue and white gingham check theme. Pale blue candles in silver candle holders were placed between the floral arrangements.

Members of the bridal party, their guests, parents and grandparents of the prospective bride and groom were present for the occasion.

Mr. McQueen presented the groomsmen and ushers with gifts.

A highlight of the dinner, which was also the bride-elect's birthday, was the surprise presentation of a birthday cake with lighted candles.

Mrs. James Luke, Mr. McQueen's sister, entertained at a luncheon for the bridesmaids Friday, June 14, at 12:30 at Annie's Restaurant in Pass Christian.

A gingham and calico theme was carried out in the table decorations. The hostess fashioned flowers of varied colored gingham with button centers in milkglass containers. Place cards in keeping with the theme were used in bone china card holders. The bride-elect was presented a corsage trimmed with blue-checked gingham ribbon. Miss Sallinger presented her attendants with gifts. Present at the luncheon were the bridesmaids, tea girls, mothers and grandmothers of the couple.

VETS BENEFIT
The Veterans Administration advises veterans to write, call, or visit their regional VA offices or local veterans service organizations for assistance in applying for veterans benefits.

Sallinger-McQueen nuptials held

Miss Janet Claire Sallinger became the bride of Mr. Kelly Lamar McQueen Saturday, June 15, at 3:30 p.m. in Our Lady of the Gulf Church, Bay St. Louis. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Sallinger of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leon McQueen of Picayune.

The ceremony was performed by Very Reverend Gregory Johnson, pastor, Our Lady of the Gulf Church, and Reverend Gary Shows, New Palestine Baptist Church, Picayune.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of silk organza with pin-tucked yoke embellished with tiny buttons, Irish crochet lace and stand-up collar. The full sheer bishop sleeves were cuffed with lace and overlaid with short lace sleeves. Her chapel length train was edged with lace and attached to the waist with self-bow. She carried a colonial nosegay of spring blossoms and English Ivy.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sammie Autrey of West Monroe, La. The bridesmaids were Miss Colette Zimmerman, Waveland; Mrs. Bobby Parker, Monroe, La.; and her sisters, Misses Lori and Fran Sallinger.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of blue designed with ruffled collars and capelet sleeves. They wore white picture hats edged with lace and trimmed with ribbon and short white gloves; they carried natural wicker baskets of spring blossoms, and English Ivy.

Attending the groom as best man was James Luke of Picayune. Groomsmen were Terry Weeks and Ray Simmons, Picayune; Kenny McQueen, the groom's brother, and Barry Sallinger, brother of the bride. Ushers were James Weeks, Hattisburg, and Bruce Johnston, Picayune.

Mrs. Sallinger chose for the occasion a floor length pale yellow gown of polyester crepe with chiffon sleeves and white accessories. She wore a white cymbidium orchid. Mrs. McQueen, mother of the groom, wore a floor length blue chiffon gown adorned with sheer sleeves, matching accessories, and a pink-toned cymbidium orchid.

Pre-nuptial and ceremonial music was provided by organist Mrs. John McKenna with musical selections chosen by the bride sung by Miss Elaine Ross of Hattisburg, a cousin of the groom. During the ceremony Miss Ross, accompanied by Mrs. McKenna, sang the Lord's Prayer.

Arrangements of white gladiolas, carnations, long-stemmed yellow roses, baby's breath and greenery decorated the main altar with the same type flowers in standing baskets on either side. Large natural wicker baskets of similar flowers decorated the communion rail at the entrance to the sanctuary.

Following the wedding a garden reception was held at the home of the bride. Floral decorations similar to those used in the church were placed throughout the home and on the outdoor tables. Keeping the guest register was Miss Dianne Fauchaux, cousin of the bride. Wedding scrolls were distributed to guests as they arrived by Miss Sherrie McCarroll, also a cousin. The bride's aunt, Mrs. John McCarroll cut the five-tiered wedding cake. The groom's cake was cut and served by Mrs. Burton Fauchaux of New Orleans, an aunt of the bride. Tea girls were Mrs. Brenda Simmons, Picayune, Miss Mary Ellen

Stewart-Shindler

Mr. and Mrs. Emile August Schindler Jr., were married Sunday, June 16.

Mrs. Schindler is the former Theo Margaret Stewart, daughter of William Hampton Stewart of Poplarville and Mrs. Rosemary Abbott, Gulfport. Mr. Schindler is the son of Mrs. Lear Roig Schindler and the late Emile August Schindler Sr. of Bay St. Louis.

Vows exchanged in evening ceremony

St. Paul's Catholic Church, Pass Christian, was the setting for the 6 p.m. wedding June 14, of Peggy Eileen Fewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Fewell of Slidell, La., and Paul Burce Ladner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Ladner, Pass Christian.

Rev. Michael Clifford performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white dotted Swiss floor length dress fashioned on Empire lines. The butterfly sleeves and neckline were accented with lace. She wore a white crochet hat and heirloom diamond earrings and pendant.

Miss Sue Ellen Fewell, Slidell, La., attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a floor length floral jersey knit dress with matching crochet hat.

Everett W. Necaise Jr., Pass Christian, was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in St. Paul's auditorium.

The couple will make their home in Pass Christian.

Guests included members of the families and friends from the Bay St. Louis and Picayune areas, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Huntington Beach, California.

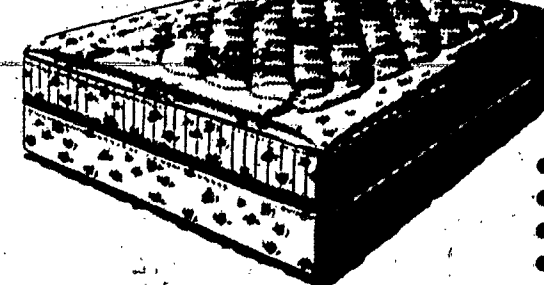

Following a wedding trip to Florida the couple will reside in Picayune for the summer months and will return to Mississippi State University for their senior year in the fall.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM BRELAND

McArthur-Breland vows solemnized

Miss Dorothy Lanell McArthur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Joseph McArthur of Pearlinton, Miss., became the bride of William Joey Breland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlyn W. Breland of Picayune Saturday, June 8, at 3 p.m. at First Southern Baptist Church, Pearlinton, Miss.

Rev. J. L. Rasberry performed the double ring ceremony.

Organist for the ceremony was Mrs. Terrell Breland, sister-in-law of the groom.

The bride, escorted by her father who gave her in marriage, wore a formal length gown of Chantilly lace over a Sabrina neckline, fitted bodice and long fitted lace sleeves. The antebellum style skirt of tiny ruffles formed a short chapel length train. Her shoulder length tiered-veil of illusion fell from a cluster of seed pearls. She carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and red sweetheart roses and baby's breath with satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Lynne McArthur attended her sister as maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Paige McArthur and Miss Theresa Wilkerson. Jacinda Kay Wilkerson, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. They wore blue knit formal length gowns with white eyelet trim and carried colonial bouquets of spring flowers.

Terrell Breland, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Robert McArthur, brother of the bride, and Ronald Breland, cousin of the groom. Ringbearer was Christopher Breland. Tommy Joe McArthur, brother of the bride, and Ray Breland, cousin of the groom, served as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered cake featuring spun sugar roses and a tiny spiral stairway with miniature bridesmaids and groomsmen in the bridal color scheme topped with a traditional bride and groom ornament.

Mrs. Earl Holden served the cake. Mrs. Marks Wilkerson Sr. was at the punch bowl and Mrs. Marks Wilkerson Jr. presided at the guest register.

Tea girls were Mrs. Tommy Joe McArthur and Misses Abby Burge, Pam Maufrey and Debbie Lundrum.

For her wedding trip to Florida, the bride chose a pink halter style pantsuit with a short bolero jacket and white accessories. A red rosebud corsage completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside in Picayune, Miss.

Lombardo birthday fete

Mary Elizabeth Lombardo celebrated her sixth birthday Sunday, June 9, at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joseph Lombardo Jr. A yellow and white Grandma's tea party was the party theme. Yellow and white streamers and balloons decorated the patio for the occasion.

Guests included her brother Jason Joseph, her grandfather, Frank James Frierson and Mrs. Frierson, Picayune, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lombardo Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hoffman, Caroline and Mary Argus, Jay Woodfin, David Cox and Russell Ladner, Bay St. Louis.

NANCY DIANNE SMITH

Engagement announced

The engagement of Miss Nancy Dianne Smith to Bennie Ray Ferrell Jr., of Bay St. Louis, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Moore Smith of Picayune. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Ray Ferrell Sr., Bay St. Louis.

Miss Smith is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Robert Harmon and the late Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey Smith.

Grandparents of Mr. Ferrell are Mr. and Mrs. Hester Clinton Davis of Wiggins and Mrs. William Richard Ferrell, Wiggins, and the late Mr. Ferrell.

The wedding will take place at 4 p.m., August 10, at First Baptist Church of Picayune. The Reverend Bill Duncan will officiate.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT LIND

Harmon-Lind vows exchanged in garden

Miss Pamela Fay Harmon, Kiln, Miss., daughter of Willie Harmon, Belzoni, Miss., and the late Mrs. Harmon, and Robert Steven Lind, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Lind, Bay St. Louis, were married at 7 p.m. May 31, in the garden of the groom's parents. Justice of the Peace Joseph Dobson performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length white dotted Swiss dress accented with puffed sleeves of silk organza. Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a pearl-handpiece and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Nancy Ladner, Pass Christian, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow floor length dress trimmed in yellow and white lace and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations and baby's breath.

Larry Lind, Bay St. Louis, served his brother as best man.

Arrangements of gladiolas and spring flowers decorated the Lind home for the reception following the ceremony.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a double knit pink floral print dress with white accessories.

The couple will make their home at Rt. 1, Bay St. Louis. The bride is a 1973 graduate of Hancock North Central School. The groom is also a 1973 graduate of Hancock North Central.

MR. EARL LUXICH OF BAY ST. LOUIS ACCEPTS DELIVERY OF HIS NEW CHEVY FROM FRITZ PERANICH, VETERAN SALESMAN AT TURAN-LANE CHEVROLET IN BAY ST. LOUIS.
Mr. Earl Luxich says that this is the third new car that he has purchased from Fritz Peranich of Turan-Lane Chevrolet. His reason for returning again to buy from Fritz Peranich, was because he remembered the good deals he received, and he also, likes the good service given by Turan-Lane Chevrolet. Veteran salesman Fritz Peranich has been selling new cars in Bay St. Louis for many years, and he is very proud of the fact that his customers continue to visit him whenever they need a new car or truck. Folks also know that Turan-Lane Chevrolet has a service department staffed with factory trained technicians to take care of whatever mechanical problems a customer may have. If you're thinking about buying a new car or truck, visit Turan-Lane Chevrolet and ask for salesman Fritz Peranich, he could save you many dollars.

It only takes common sense and a little forethought to make sure your boating fun is not the cause of water pollution.

Ken Craft of Gulfport, took

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Deq) Elliott

The past weekend was ideal for fishing, no rain, low tides in the afternoons. The weather was on the hot side but breezes helped to cool things a little. Bass and perch were hitting late in the evening and were being caught from 5 p.m. on up until dark.

Such places as Deer Bayou, Fawn Bayou and Buck's Bayou furnished some good fly rod and casting fishing.

As for salt water fish, understand that speckles were again caught on the highway bridge, American Legion Pier and down by Bayou Cadiz along with hard crabs. Things are looking better as the summer progresses.

A lot of soft crabs have been out at night with very little results. Still have hopes that they will get better later.

Two young boys were skiing the other day. They were picked up and had to pay a fine for not observing rules concerning skiing. One rule is that when skiing there must be a pilot and one observer in the boat, plus the one on skis. Skiing is a popular sport hereabout so let's learn something about it.

Sorry to learn that Vic Schwartz has been hospitalized. His fishing buddies will miss him. Get well soon, Vic.

Bud Thomas has returned from the hospital after a short stay. Doing o.k., he said.

Another fish kill appeared in Calcasieu river last week-officials are trying to find out why.

Fish of all species started dying in large numbers and their bodies littered sandbars and the river bank.

Darrell Reed of the state Wild Life and Fisheries Commission said Thursday there was "Zero oxygen" in that stretch of the river.

Jim Wrinkle, a river pump operator, said he has seen dozens of fish "coming up with their mouths open, gasping for air" before dying and floating to the surface.

A crew of commission officials has been inspecting the river near Kinder and Oberlin since Tuesday seeking the cause of the fish kill and taking water samples for chemical analysis.

Reed said legal action was possible if the analysis shows that industrial pollution caused the fish kill.

We have had several fish kills here and at Pearl River. They have been investigated. The Fish and Game Commission is doing all in its power to find a solution.

J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, reminds all interested Louisiana hunters and sportsmen that the annual public hearings on the setting of hunting seasons and bag limits for 1974-75 will be June 21 and 22 at the Ramada Inn in Alexandria, La.

The hearings will begin immediately after the regular monthly public meeting of the Commission which is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. Friday at the Ramada Inn.

Angelle urged all interested parties to make plans to attend.

You, as a hunter in La. or Miss., can help a lot by giving some new ideas on setting seasons and bag limits for the coming year.

Senior Game Warden Pat Toomey notified us that the new ramp being built at the end of the seawall down Cedar Point way is not completed and is not to be used as yet. The ramp is being built by the Miss. Game and Fish Commission for public use. Pat will give notice when it is to be used. The public should take notice.

While speaking of Pat Toomey he is also a real sport. Fishes, hunts, etc. like all of us. He speared 11 flounders at the mouth of Pearl River down by the Port and Harbor project. They were all nice size, he said.

Had to know that Dick F. ... III has received his

M.D. degree. Dick besides being a doctor, is one of our best fishermen. He is the oldest son of Dick Mestayer, II. He takes behind his Pa when it comes to being a fisherman.

Was sorry to hear of the death of Nolan Kingston Sunday afternoon. He was one of our best sports. Sympathy is extended to his family.

Like Elliott and Ray Garner made a nice catch of bass and perch Saturday in Buck's Bayou. The fish were caught late in the evening after the tide fell. They were caught on the fly rod and by casting. Buck's Bayou and other bayous in that section are clear now. They are tributaries of the mighty Pearl River which is clearing rapidly. Good fresh water fishing will be following shortly.

John Scafide, Sr. and Jr. reported catching some nice speckles at Nine Bayou out in the marsh, also caught a nice bunch of shrimp in that area. The two Johns make a good father and son fishing combination. They were on John, Jr.'s boat.

Roy Baxter's Pearlinton Marina is getting ready for another good fishing season as soon as the river gets clearer. This is the area to fish in for fresh water fish and salt water fish and Roy's Marina is the place to launch your boat or rent one. Go meet Roy, you will be glad you did, fishing wise.

We keep talking about skiing and so are the folks who run fishing camps. Skiing is a lot of fun but it's a pain to a lot of fishermen who fear for their lives when high speed boats venture too near them. Be a good sport when skiing-respect others. They enjoy the waters too. Keep your boat under control at all times. Know what you are doing. That's a smart skier.

Did you fishermen know that when the air is humid, rain is more likely at low than high tide? Falling tide reduces atmospheric pressure.

The fresh water Drum (Gaspergon) average weight is about six pounds, but grows as big as 60 pounds. It is valuable as a commercial fish for food. Of course there are salt water drum too.

Free-ranging dogs harmful to wildlife

MISSISSIPPI STATE - Dogs can bring many hours of pleasure to their owners. However, free-ranging dogs can be very destructive to wildlife.

"Most dog owners cannot imagine their pets as killers of wildlife, but many cases have been studied that substantiate this fact," noted Ross Shelton, wildlife specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service.

"Dogs can be very harmful to nesting turkeys. They can destroy nests or cause nest abandonment."

In the spring and summer, dogs have been known to run deer down and kill them.

Story hour Auxiliary special

The rept attention of small children is reflected every week during the city-county library's summer reading program for children three to five years old. Here Mrs. Nancy Ginn, Bay-Waveland Junior Auxiliary member, reads a Dr. Seuss book, a children's favorite. The Junior Auxiliary in cooperation with the library is acting as volunteer story tellers every Friday from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. during the summer program. Mrs. Watson Prindiville, administrator of the library, said the program is important because children learn to be comfortable with books at an early age and establish habits of library usage.

American are placing more and more emphasis on formal education. According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the growing importance of education-along with expanded educational opportunities has resulted in an increasingly educated labor force.

EDUCATION OF WORKERS

Between March 1972 and March 1973, the educational attainment of workers has continued its long-term rise, according to the Department of Labor. In March 1973, more than two-thirds of the American workers had completed high school.

Younger workers in the 20-to-34 age group had more education than older workers; 82 percent had completed high school, with 40 percent completing at least one year of college. Of the over-35 age group, 63 percent had completed high school, with 25 percent completing one year or more of college.

WOMEN

Even though job opportunities in all fields are expanding rapidly for women, women are not entering the traditionally male occupations. The U.S. Department of Labor reports that only 7 percent of June 1972 women graduates majored in math, science, or engineering as compared with 24 percent of the men. Almost 50 percent of the women majored in education, but only 11 percent of the men majored in education. However, a larger portion of men than women in education have completed five or more years of college.

INCOME

The real income of all workers has increased over the last two decades; however, the most educated workers have experienced the greatest increase. Since 1949, the median income of men with only elementary schooling has increased by 63 percent. The income of high school graduates has increased by 69 percent and that of college graduates has increased by 87 percent.

JOB IN THE '70s

HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATORS: Good opportunities for those with master's degrees in hospital administration. Those without graduate degrees will find it difficult to enter this field.

ADVERTISING: Slow growth. Opportunities good for highly trained applicants.

LIBRARIANS: Good opportunities, especially in school libraries for those who have advance degrees. If you would like more information, write Dr. Jones at CAREERS, University, MS 38677.

Registration still open

Registration is still open for many of the Parks and Playgrounds' summer recreation program presently in progress.

Anyone interested in registering for baseball may still register at McDonald Park. Arts and Crafts registration continues at the Webb Center. Registration for tennis has been closed.

Currently there are 84 boys registered in minor league baseball, 61 girls in minor league softball, and 46 young people registered for tennis. In addition 30 people have signed up for Arts and Crafts classes.

Beginning next week the Parks and Playgrounds Commission will hold registration for an Arts and Crafts class for five and six year olds only. The class will consist of fingerpainting, coloring, weaving and making simple crafts. Registration will be held at the Webb Center on Tuesday June 25 from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Beginning June 20, the minor league program will begin their games. The games will be every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon with the girls' game beginning at 3:45 p.m. and the boys' game beginning at 5:00 p.m. Additional information about any program may be obtained from Billy Rhodes at 467-3088.

Pretty co-ed works for vet status

In the hot summer who volunteers to lug 50 pound sacks of feed and work in hot fields and muggy, dusty barns tending horses and sheep? One tall, pretty, blonde co-ed from Jasper, Alabama does, and she is the only cowgirl among a group of cowboys doing the same work.

Sandy Chatham, a 19-year-old pre-veterinarian student at Mississippi State University, is working at the experimental animal farms for the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station (MAFES).

"Sandy will be working at the feeding, caring and general management of the research animals here at the MAFES south farm."

"She will be getting the practical experience of working on a research farm, and this is important when one is aiming for veterinary med school," said Dr. Leroy Boyd, animal scientist for MAFES.

"Most of my friends wouldn't dream of coming out here like this," said Sandy. "They wouldn't want to get their hands dirty. I like to dress up and go to parties, but I couldn't stand it if that's all I could do."

Horses are Sandy's favorite animal, but she professes to love them all.

"I've worked around farms all of my life. I worked on two commercial horse farms near Jasper. We didn't actually live on it, but my folks used to own a farm near Jasper. When I was growing up I always tagged along after my father," said Sandy.

"My life style may be different from that of my friends," said Sandy, "and I may not want to live on a farm, but I do want to be involved with all of it, all of the animals, and I don't mind getting my hands dirty to do it."

Commission will hold registration for an Arts and Crafts class for five and six year olds only. The class will consist of fingerpainting, coloring, weaving and making simple crafts. Registration will be held at the Webb Center on Tuesday June 25 from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Beginning June 20, the minor league program will begin their games. The games will be every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon with the girls' game beginning at 3:45 p.m. and the boys' game beginning at 5:00 p.m. Additional information about any program may be obtained from Billy Rhodes at 467-3088.

If gas pains persist, try Volkswagen.

A VW goes a long way in relieving gas problems-by getting terrific gas mileage.

It also relieves those little headaches-by needing pints of oil instead of quarts. And not needing antifreeze because of its air-cooled engine.

Plus it gets rid of nervous upsets due to owning a new car. With Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket, you're provided with the best care any car can have...in sickness and in health.

The fact is that Volkswagen can cure lots of problems that most cars can't.

Maybe you should take two.
